Mr. Nerod was a very successful man, who never forgot his humble beginnings in Mineola as well as those who helped him along the way. This led him to, among other philanthropic causes, the establishment of this scholarship. In his Honorary Doctorate acceptance address, he gave the graduates three bits of advice - find something you love to do that you can earn a living from, seek and confront obstacles and challenges directly, and then, if and when able, be sure to give back to those less fortunate.

Describe in an essay of 250-500 words how you have either confronted an obstacle or challenge, given back to others less fortunate, or plan to pursue something you love to do.
